Successful Pupils in Musical Exams.

The following pupils of Miss C. Michener were successful in the examinations in music held, recently: Daisy Gaetz, in Junior Conservatory of Music; Florence Lund, May Hoskins, Willard Trimble and Marion Michener, in Elementary Conservatory of Music; Eunice Ide, Harold Gaetz, and Vera East in Primary University of Toronto. The report of Mary McGill has not been received.

Anquetil vs. Robertson

Fred Anquetil dropped into the office on Saturday last and asked us to publish his emphatic repudiation of the defamatory aspersions cast on his potatoes by Constable Robertson as published in the Advocate.

We take great pleasure in doing so if we can in some small way aid in removing the stain from the character of our inspector. Constable Robertson accompanied Fred and seemed rather to glory in the statements published in the Advocate than to regret them. The editor agreed to act as Fred's second, and an official challenge was handed the constable to produce the goods or forever hold his peace. The editor agreed to act as Fred's second, and an official challenge was handed the constable to produce the goods or forever hold his peace.

While on the subject of vegetables Fred gave us a short discussion on vegetable growth in the Jersey Islands, where he was born. He said they grew cabbages sixteen feet in height and a single plant was worth as much as an apple orchard in B. C. After several varieties of cabbages had been harvested off the same plant the stock was sent to England and transformed into a walking stick. The inspector went on to say that one of these sixteen foot walking sticks was about right for the average man in the Jersey Islands, although he himself was considerably stunted on account of coming to Canada before maturity.

Competitions Afford Good Advertising for Farmers

When the enterprising farmer sows his grain in the spring, he has in mind the harvest and after the harvest the marketing of his produce. He naturally wants to have the best return possible for his labor, but sometimes it is not able to get in touch with just the best market.

The farmer who specializes on some particular brand of agriculture is bound to produce a high grade stock or grain, or roots or dairy produce, and should be able to command a higher price than he would for a low grade produce.

Recognizing this fact, the Edmonton Exhibition Association has steadily increased its classes in all its prizes to encourage bringing branches of farming, and has added the best out of Alberta's soil. The producer who brings his products to the exhibition and competes with those of other producers will find that this open competition thus afforded is the best advertisement he can get, and if his products are worthy he is assured of a permanent market.

One exhibitor of last year writes: "I took the prizes for white potatoes last year, and this year have had orders for seed potatoes of this variety from all over the province."

The Association has under consideration an innovation which should be of great educational value to the farming community. This will consist of a practical demonstration as to the methods of making stock raising profitable, such as raising a better grade of stock, and the advantages derived from studying the matter of feeding and general care.

1396 Tickets go by Default

A mild sensation was caused in the city on Monday when it became known that certain owners of fling tickets at the Dominion Lands office had failed to put in an appearance. A few had failed to put in an appearance during the forenoon, and at one-thirty p.m., after No. 368 had finished fling, there was no response to any other number called out by the clerk. A few people who had heard that numbers were being missed attended out of curiosity and listened amid excitement to the numbers being called, until the last one, 1754, was reached. There is no doubt but what considerable money has been lost on this "ticket slide."

Many people who hold numbers between 300 and 400 had sold them to outside parties, who had not expected to be called before the end of this week at the earliest. One man was at Sylvan Lake, but could not get hold of. Two Calgary parties were seen in a state of great excitement arguing on the question, and accusing each other of all sorts of things. Some citizens had speculated on numbers with the intention of reselling and have been pretty hard hit. One lady holding a ticket for 600 had sold her rights for $100, and had received $30 on account. This was typical of many cases. Fling has practically died out now as far as oil is concerned, there only being an occasional oil fling on unsurveyed land. The boom, while it lasted, benefited a large number of citizens, and helped out the city generally. The hotels and restaurants did an increased business when things were quiet. This also helped the stores, etc., and while a lot of money has been tied up the last few weeks, it has been nearly all outside money, so that we are none the worse off.

North Red Deer Council and Court of Revision

The Council of North Red Deer concluded its work as a Court of Revision on July 6th. There had been only fifteen appeals against the assessment, and all, with the exception of two, were confirmed. The reductions made in these two cases were for $25 and $50 respectively. The assessment roll contains the names of only registered owners of property, and in case of new registrations being affected, the new owners may have their names put on the 1914 roll any time before the 15th of October by making application to the Council in writing and producing proof of the new registration.

The total assessment of the village for 1914 stands at $662,235 for land values alone, after making authorized exemption of lands for school and church.

The Council has considered the estimates for 1914, and work is going steadily ahead now. The rate for 1914 has been struck, and is 10 mills on the dollar, the same as for 1913. Owing to the scarcity of money, a liberal allowance was made for taxes not coming in before the end of the year, and a special inducement of 10 per cent discount is offered by the Council on all current taxes paid on or before August 31st. 5 per cent discount is given on all current taxes paid on or before September 30th, and taxes will be net from that date to December 31st.

The deviation on Maple Ave. is being rushed ahead under the supervision of Councillor E. Hearnay. Considerable volunteer work is being given by persons to whom this work will prove a benefit and others who cannot give their time or teams are giving donations toward the cost of the work. It is expected that a splendid grade will be obtained and that this road will eventually be used by persons going toward Black falls and that part of the country.

The Council felt that owing to the scarcity of work the wages should be increased. It was decided to pay the men working for the village 30 cents per hour, and the working hours for all village workers to be from 7 to 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 to 6 p.m. This would give two hours rest during the hottest period of the day.

The Council's petition presented to the ratepayers for their support for the purpose of purchasing properties for village purposes did not meet with the required approval. The lease of the present village site will expire in June of next year unless the option for a further period of two years is taken.

Red Deer Citizens' Band

During the past few weeks the band has been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Eskey, bass, and Mr. Thos. Fishwick, solo cornettist. Both have considerable experience and are proving a great help to the band. To the management of the Great West Lumber Co., Ltd., the band is very grateful for giving employment to both these musicians. On Friday evening last the band paid a visit to the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Stone, where they rendered a few selections, after which they were invited into the house and entertained in a most delightful manner. Mr. Stone was a member of the Red Deer Band when first organized under Canon Hinchliffe, and he still retains a great interest in the organization. He is always willing and anxious to serve the band, not only in his capacity as an artist, but financially as well. One of the members of the band, the leader thanked Mr. and Mrs. Stone for their kindness, and also for the cash donation given for the purchase of new music.

Ten members of the Red Deer Citizens' Band are filling an engagement at Delburne today. The concert given by the band on the Land Office Square and in Gaetz Park are fairly well attended. A complete new programme is being prepared for the next concert, which will be announced later. Do not miss it.

Important Changes in C.P.R. Districts

Owing to the increased mileage in the Alberta Division of the C.P.R. it has been found necessary to re-territory, as far as possible, the various districts. The new districts, including two additional ones, will come into operation on August 1st. Under the new system the Superintendents at Calgary, Medicine Hat and Cranbrook, in addition to a terminal superintendent at Edmonton, will be in charge of the control of Superintendents J. A. McGregor. Additional territory has been added to Red Deer district, extending it on the east to Kerrobert and on the west to west of Rocky Mountain House. It is practically an assured fact that the C.P.R. will take over the A.C.R. at the end of this month, and commence operations on August 1st.

Dr. Collison Returns

Dr. John Collison, Mrs. Collison and son David returned from an extended business and pleasure trip to England and the Continent, on Saturday last. To say that they received a warm welcome from the citizens of Red Deer is a very mild expression of the fact. So far it has been a succession of hand shakes and pleasant smiles. The Doctor is probably one of the best liked and most popular citizens of Red Deer ever possessed, and during his absence has been talked about probably more than any other absent citizen, and his return looked forward to with much pleasure. The Doctor and family have benefited very much in health from their trip and are looking remarkably well.

Dr. Collison speaks very highly of the beautiful places he visited, including London, Glasgow, Dublin, Edinburgh, and the various towns and the continent of Europe, where they took in all that they could possibly see in the time at their disposal. He says that he has got an insight into the character of the English people that he never expected to get, and is altogether satisfied with his trip. The first months of the Doctor's stay in England was spent in general medical and surgical practice at the London Hospitals, where he gained much knowledge and experience. By that time he had finally decided to go in for a course of study of the eye, ear, nose and throat, first in the London hospitals, in one of which he was house surgeon for two months, then in Vienna University. He afterwards worked at the leading hospitals of Berlin and Paris for a short time, and returned again to England and completing his studies at the London eye, ear, nose and throat hospital.

After eight months of study, attention and continuous practice at his work, the Doctor, accompanied by his wife and son, extended his visit by an extended tour to the leading hospitals of England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, which gave him the opportunity of studying the social and political questions which are to the fore at the present time.

The Doctor has taken up his residence at his old place of business on First Street South, where, for the present, he will practise his specialties in conjunction with Dr. Sanders. Doubtless his many friends hope that it will be a continuous practice, but when we consider the time and expense entailed in the taking of courses in the leading hospitals of Europe, we trust that the progress of Red Deer will be such that will warrant his remaining among us.

Death of Late City Foreman Mifflin

We regret to announce the death, on Wednesday last, of Cornelius Mifflin, who was for ten years an employee of the City Council in various positions. Mr. Mifflin was 45 years of age, and died from cancer of the stomach. He was a well known man, of a very genial disposition, and by one and all styled Neil. He gave the city good service, being very familiar with all branches of the Municipality, and it was grown up with it, and never made it a trouble at any hour of the night to turn out if necessary.

He was the city's first policeman. Previous to that he had worked for various people of this district as teamster, land guide, etc. He leaves behind him a widow and three children. The funeral took place on Friday last from his residence in North Red Deer, a large number of sympathizers attending, including representatives from the public bodies.

Provincial League Football

There will be two Provincial Football League games played in Red Deer this week. Didsbury will be here tonight, and as they are about the same class as Red Deer, a good game should result.

On Thursday night Lacombe, will be here, and as they put it over the United at Lacombe, the local boys are hoping to turn the tables this time, although, through various causes, the United will not be as strong as they were in the early part of the season.

The support of the citizens in these games is earnestly requested. The postponed game between the All-Canadians and Firemen will take place on Monday next. All games are played on the school grounds. Kick off at 7:30 p.m.

Rifle Match at Innisfail

Eight of Penhold's crack rifle shots came to Innisfail on Tuesday afternoon to try conclusions with their ancient enemy. There has been considerable goodnatured rivalry between these two teams, with victory perching on one or the other in see-saw fashion. In the past the advantage has been slightly with the northerners. The Penhold boys are strong on practice and Innisfail is the reverse.

The match on Tuesday was a good one and ended about as close as they get, there being but five points between the totals. Two Penhold men lost nine points by shooting at the wrong target.

ALL IS READY TO RUN TRAINS FROM COAST TO COAST

G. T. P. and National Transcontinental Now Finished Except Quebec Bridge.

Ottawa, July 15.—The linking up of all sections of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway is reported by Col. Ingwood Schrieber, consulting engineer of the Dominion government, who has just returned from an inspection of the line.

"I travelled by rail right through from Winnipeg to Prince Rupert," declared Mr. Schrieber yesterday, "and everything is in fine shape. The road will be ready to open in the fall. What remains to be done is ballasting and the like. There is a one per cent. grade for a distance of 20 miles only, on the rest of the line only a five-tenths grade."

The laying of steel over the mountain section, together with the completion of the eastern division by the government, means that a train many now run over the transcontinental from Halifax to Prince Rupert save from the gap at the Quebec bridge. The car ferry "Leonard," to be used there, will have her official trial trip on the 20th instant, and, if satisfactory, will be brought out immediately.

It is fully expected here that the Grand Trunk Pacific will exercise its option of leasing the eastern section, and by the new year, start the regular operation of the transcontinental from coast to coast.

WHISKEY AND LONG LIFE.

Some unknown person has sent me a newspaper clipping telling of an Irishman who lived to be 108 years old, although he was fond of his glass. Yes, we occasionally hear of men of such wonderful vitality that they can withstand the injurious influence of drink and live to a good old age. When such cases are investigated the facts are almost invariably found to be very sad. Their children, if they have any, are generally condemned to lives of suffering for the ignorance or the selfish indulgence of their parents. The great Charles Kingsley said that the children of such parents are "damned from their mother's womb." Dr. McNeill, appointed by President Roosevelt to investigate this question from a scientific standpoint, says that for every child of total abstaining parents that dies before it reaches two years of age there are five children of drinking parents that die before that age. Statistics show that while 82 children of abstaining parents grow up into good useful citizens only seventeen children of drinking parents do so. Of course there are exceptions where the mother has been sober and of a powerful constitution, but they are rare. Our own experience confirms that.

I know of a man who lived to be 90 years of age. He was a constant drinker but never was drunk. Out of a family of ten children only three lived to mature life, and of these three only one could be said to be fairly healthy. The others were nervous weaklings. This is only one of many such cases that I have known.

How grossly some people pounce on one isolated case where a drinking man has lived to be old, but seem to be perfectly blind to the many examples all round them of men who have gone to an early grave or worse through drink.

ANTHRAX

This fatal disease is due to the presence of a microbe in the blood—the bacillus anthracis—which gains entrance through a wound, with food or drink, into the lungs in the action of breathing, or by biting insects. It is marked by stiffness, convulsions, rise of temperature, and trembling in the limb. Death usually takes place within 48 hours, and the rapidity with which putrefaction occurs is very marked.

Though a good measure of success has been obtained by a vaccine in the prevention of the disease, the main efforts must be directed towards the destruction of infected animals. These should be immediately isolated in a small paddock, in which they can be buried or burned. If buried, the carcass should be covered with a strong solution of chloride of lime, and the surface soil from the spot where it died sprinkled with the same solution, and shovelled into the grave with it.

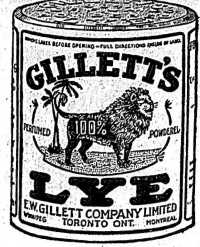

Where the animal is found dead, if necessary to remove it, a sledge should be used, and the carcass never dragged over the ground. The place where it died, the sledge, and tools should be disinfected in the same way. Where wood is plentiful, and it can be done without danger of grass fires, all carcasses, earth, etc., should be burned thoroughly.

On no account should carcasses be buried in ground likely to be cultivated. Instances have been reported where plough horses, after an interval of some years, have contracted anthrax from infected soil.

If this disease is suspected, the chief veterinary officer of the Department of Agriculture should be notified, and steps taken to diagnose. It is safest to obtain a veterinary surgeon in suspicious cases, and work under his directions.

It is very contagious to human beings, and the soil, especially when rich and moist, is a great factor in preserving and propagating the microbe.

expected that the report will be presented in a few days.

NO NECESSITY FOR NEW ISSUE C.P.R.

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, President of Road, Sets Rumors at Rest

HAS $30,000,000, IN CASH

Montreal, July 16.—In order to set at rest rumors about any issue of new stock and other disquieting stories about Canadian Pacific railway affairs Sir Thomas Shaughnessy yesterday issued the following statement:

"After the payment of all fixed charges and dividends, the company enters upon a new fiscal year, July 1, with $30,000,000 in cash and $14,000,000 in equipment securities, after having spent upwards of $80,000,000 on railway and steamship construction, for which four per cent. consolidated debenture stocks have been authorized, but not offered on the market.

"The end has nearly been reached with all the important works of construction and improvement that were in progress and only a comparatively small part of the money in hand will be required for their completion.

"New works of any magnitude were not contemplated at present, and no necessity exists for a new issue of stock.

"It is not unlikely, however, that the directors will, at the meeting in October, recommend to the shareholders that the authorized ordinary share capital be made to conform to the amount for which the company has legal warrant, so as to provide for the future capital requirements as and when they arise."

HYDRO-ELECTRIC
POSSIBILITIES

The recent visit of the Dominion Government engineers, and the numerous reports of other experts, including the report of Engineer Davis last season on the great possibilities of the water power of the Red Deer river, must be taken notice of by the people at large and Red Deer citizens in particular. It is claimed we have unlimited power in our mighty river if it was dammed a short distance east in the canyon where the very high banks and other requisites make it an ideal spot for a mighty hydro-electric plant, capable of turning every wheel in the province.

Attention in Great Britain is being called to the growth of electric power stations, the energy being derived from water power. In Scandinavia, Switzerland, France and Italy enormous water works of this description are in progress, and the manner in which this promises to revolutionize industry is well brought out in an extract from a lecture given recently in New York by Mr. T. C. Coffey, president of the American Electric Works Association, in which it is pointed out that already as a result of supremacy in cotton manufacture that industry is passing from the New England states to the southern states. Mr. Coffey said:

"We have had lately, in the last five or six years, a wonderful outburst and development of hydro electric plants for power transmission, so that some of those plants have circuits operating at seventy thousand volts over distances of 200, 240 and 250 miles. If you will start out from Washington in the morning for the southern gateway, Atlanta, the whole day long shining track of steel will be overlapped and criss crossed by the shining tracks of aluminum and copper, distributing power from three or four great plants to hundreds and hundreds of cotton mills and factories all over the south. And those electric tracks overhead are carrying more power in a few hours than all those steel tracks can carry in days in the shape of coal. And more than that, with the wonderful electrical power development in the south, the south today has run ahead and snatched from New England its supremacy in cotton manufacture, so that the south today is not only the centre of cotton production, but the great home of American cotton manufacture. This is not only a startling revelation, but a transformation which carries with it social transformations which go well beyond the very depths of our well-being."

THE FARMER WANTS
CHEAPER MONEY.

Hon. Charles R. Mitchell, the provincial treasurer, has been telling the farmers that they (the government), are going to try to get more money for them. That is, they are going to try to get somebody to lend them some more money so that they may go deeper into debt. This excellent financier further says: "I don't say cheap money, money is not cheap at present in this or any other country." The honorable gentleman is afraid the people will say he is trying to rob the Conservative party of the plank in their platform promising the farmer cheap money. What the farmer wants is cheap money. He had to pay from eight to ten per cent. and even higher, and is then treated as though he had been caught stealing a sheep when he tries to borrow a little, even though his security is in the best. If a farmer has to pay this high rate of interest, he is selling to the wind, and probably reap a whirlwind, because in a good many cases he will never be able to pay it back. Whereas if he could get money for, say, five per cent., he would have no difficulty in paying his interest. In France the other day a loan of millions of dollars was subscribed many times over at less than four per cent., and the government might easily borrow money at this rate and let it out again to the farmer, say, for five per cent., and pay all expenses. That is what the farmer wants.

REFUTING THE
"CALAMITY-HOWLERS."

Ever since the Laurier Government went out of office C. G. political agitators and schemers in the Prairie Provinces have consistently and persistently sought to spread the idea that the prairie farmers are oppressed, harassed, unassisted. The rejection of reciprocity by the electorate of Canada smothered the pet schemes of the coteries of would-be manipulators of the agricultural vote, but it did not check their propensity for misrepresenting the condition of the western farmers. Recently the manager of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company, which is closely in touch with the Scott Government machine in Regina, appeared before the manufacturers' Association and described how the Western farmers were "in bondage to the tariff." Of course, an almost inevitable result of the political "calamity-howling" has been a prejudicing of settlement in the West, and an unsettling of confidence among those who do not know how the game is worked.

Under such conditions it is pleasant to find there are men in the Grain Growers' Association who will not sit silent under the imputations of the agitators. Mr. F. W. Green, late secretary of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association, says:

"To be candid, there are very few men engaged in agricultural pursuits as a means of getting a livelihood and making a home, who are not doing exceptionally well in this great prairie country, apart from accidentally unfortunate ones, and perhaps a considerable number who are experimenting in districts new or old, unacquainted with business, starting on farms handicapped with a heavy initial debt. Everyone who knows the actual conditions knows that thousands of well tilled and well stocked farms with well filled barns and beautiful homes on them are in evidence in scores of different districts. Yes, many of our experienced farmers have done well at farming, but, like every other class when they get rich, they either get lazy or take too much ambitious pride in their success."

The West undoubtedly has many and grave economic problems to solve. The decline in the price of wheat in the autumn months, as a consequence of the avalanche-like rush of grain to market, brings up the very important matter of better financing arrangements for the farmers. And there are other similar matters that await working out, but they have little relation to the manoeuvring of the Laurier agitators. These are concerned chiefly with juggling for party purposes.—Toronto Mail.

In so far as the polling may be an indication of how Ontario will go in the next Dominion elections, some of the results look ominous for the Liberals. For instance, in Welland, the constituency of Mr. Wm. Gorman, the anti-reciprocity Liberal, Mr. D. Sharp, the Conservative candidate won out with the decisive majority of 863. In South Renfrew, Hon. Geo. P. Graham's constituency, Mr. McGarry, the government representative, was returned by acclamation. South Bruce, West Kent and West Lambton, all of which are represented by Liberals at Ottawa, went Conservative by majorities of 325, 150 and 102 respectively. Thus five of the fourteen constituencies represented by supporters of Sir Wilfrid have been carried handsly by the provincial Conservative party. These results should furnish material for reflection to Mr. Hugh Guthrie, M.P., and Mr. Rodolph Lemieux, M.P., who have been vigorously insisting that a "wave of Liberalism" is arising in Ontario and the latter of whom assured the opposition press a few days ago that Mr. Rowell would carry the province with a majority of from 40 to 45 seats.

The by-law submitted to the burgesses of the town of Olds to grant a ten year franchise to a company which desired to install an electric light plant, was defeated a few days ago by a vote of 76 to 40. There were 116 votes polled, and it required two-thirds of the total vote to win. Olds was lit by gasoline at the present time at a cost of $288.62 per year for light and $15 per month for caretaking.

A Colossal Fortune

London, July 15.—The final valuation of the estate of Sir Julius Wernher, which is now being concluded, will occasion great surprise. It was provisionally valued at $26,000,000, but it is understood that the revised estimate will set the value at more than $57,000,000. As the estate of Sir Julius was finally proved at about $42,500,000, the two chief partners of Wernher, Iteit and company made during their lifetime $100,000,000 more than their share. The Wernher fortune is easily the record for a South African magnate. It is unlikely that its total will ever be equalled by any other fortune taken out of the old land.

Huerta Resigns Presidency of Mexico

Carbajal Appointed Successor

Mexico City, July 15.—General Victoriano Huerta resigned from the provisional presidency of the Mexican republic this evening, and his resignation was accepted by the Senate and chamber of deputies by a vote of 22 to 17. Francisco Carbajal was then appointed president and took the oath of office in the joint session of deputies and senators. Huerta's resignation was submitted through the department of foreign relations. It was read in the house and was greeted with cries of "Viva Huerta!" It was then referred to the joint committee of governance. After brief consideration the committee reported accepting the resignation in the following terms:

"Article 1.—We accept the resignation presented by General Victoriano Huerta as president of the Mexican United States."

"Article 2.—We call Licentiate Francisco Carbajal, minister of foreign relations, to assume the presidency."

A ballot was taken and the joint session approved the report. President Carbajal proceeded to the national palace under an escort of presidential guards, and all along the way was greeted with tumultuous cheering.

IT IS PRESIDENT CARBAJAL NOW.

Mexico City, July 15.—At 7:20 o'clock this evening Francisco Carbajal took the oath as president of Mexico before the assembled deputies and senators.

The new executive, escorted by presidential guards, went immediately to the National palace. He was cheered by the people.

HUERTA IS GETTING OUT.

Washington, July 15.—Rear Admiral Badger reported to the navy department tonight that reports reaching Vera Cruz said General Huerta and General Blanquet would leave Mexico City by train under escort. There was no mention of destination, but officials here think the retired dictator will go to Puerto Mexico, to board a foreign man-of-war for Europe.

Admiral Badger also announced that the British cruisers Heron and Bristol, sailed from Vera Cruz for Puerto Mexico, at six o'clock tonight. Earlier in the day the Dutch cruiser Kortenaar, whose commander went to Mexico City several days ago, started for the same port.

VILLA IS DISAPPOINTED.

Juarez, July 15.—"I would much rather prefer that Huerta had remained in the presidential chair and in Mexico City until we could get our hands on him," General Villa said today in Juarez, when he learned of Huerta's resignation. "That is the only thing I care to make on the subject," he added. "I am a soldier of my country and do not care to express my opinion of the present president."

THE WHITE PLAGUE
IN ALBERTA

(By Mrs. Arthur Murphy of Edmonton)

To the Editor of The News.

From time to time the members of the Alberta Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis are being asked what steps they are taking towards combating the disease or they are taking any? As vice-president of the board of trustees I have been requested to give to the public a brief report of the work accomplished and a statement of our plans for the immediate future. Several meetings have been held at Calgary, where the association was first organized, under the presidency of Mr. John A. McDougall of Edmonton. The Dominion Government are giving $200,000 for the erection of a sanatorium, and for the purpose of securing suitable plans for the building. The success of this fund in a large measure is due to the untiring efforts of Mrs. Harold Riley, of Calgary. As yet, Edmonton or the other cities have contributed nothing.

The association has arranged with Dr. George D. Porter, the secretary of the Canadian Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, to visit Alberta during the month of April in order that he may speak in our different cities and towns on this subject, and that the association and board may consult with him as to the best methods of building and equipping our sanatorium. It is greatly to be desired that the press, the medical doctors, and all people who are alive to the menace of this disease will see to it that Dr. Porter is given a hearty welcome and a large hearing in each place he visits.

FOR A SANATORIUM.

It is the intention of our association to request the legislature of the Province of Alberta to equip and maintain a Provincial Sanatorium on the 320 acres to be donated by the Dominion Government. In this purpose we feel we will have the unequalled support of all right-thinking ratepayers throughout Alberta, whatever their political stripe. In order that there may be no question about this matter, will the medical associations, women's clubs, and citizens generally see that direct pressure is brought to bear upon the member for their constituency, so that when he comes to the next session of the house he may know exactly how the voters stand. This should be attended to without delay, and surely attended to.

In our provincial and federal politics we Canadians are making the mistake of concentrating our attention upon the morals and pretensions of candidates instead of judging government by what government does. Gains of men and progress of law are useful to us only when converted into deeds that make men freer in the enjoyment of health and earning power.

Subject to the approval of Dr. Porter and of the hospital architects, it is our opinion that an administrative building should be erected with one unit which should have a capacity for at least one hundred beds and that the plans of the hospital should be of such a nature that other units or cottages could be attached as required. All patients who are able to pay should do so, and the government, instead of paying a per capita grant per diem, should pay whatever deficit remains. Although the citizens of Edmonton have invested in their municipal hospitals a sum approximating a million dollars, as yet the ratepayers of the province of Alberta have contributed nothing for the care of their tubercular patients, except their per diem grant, or for the stamping out of this disease. In this respect, we are not hesitate to say that further disregard to the spread of tuberculosis is to become almost criminally negligent in the administration of our affairs. Because of the grip it has laid upon our own best economic interests.

People who are a menace to the community because of brain disease are sent to Ponoka, and paid for by the province if they cannot afford to pay for themselves. People who are a menace by reason of small-pox, diphtheria or other infectious diseases are properly cared for and isolated by the authorities. This same principle should be applied to the treatment and cure for tuberculosis, the hideous, ever-present vampire which has threatened the vitality of our race. Because of the grip it has acquired this is a problem beyond the capacity of private nurses to solve and must inevitably be faced by the different provinces and by the Dominion as a whole. It is no mere puzzle in pathology to be dealt with by specially trained or medical house officers but it is a matter of the gravest national significance and one which, if neglected, becomes the wisest sense a national calamity.

When it was explained to his late Majesty King Edward VII. that tuberculosis was a preventable disease, his majesty remarked, "If preventable, why not prevent it?" The question still clamors for an answer. Many valuable lives are lost to the province between the ages of 20 and 35, as the disease is most commonly found among those in the third decade of life. In the year 1912, in Alberta, 241 people died of pulmonary tuberculosis, and the loss by deaths to Edmonton alone, without considering any other part of the province, represents in one year a sum sufficient to establish a well-equipped provincial sanatorium.

The conservation of the lives of the people of the province must, without question, take precedence over all other subjects or works. It is estimated that each emigrant coming to Canada has a monetary value to the country of five thousand dollars. If then, we allow this figure, the cost of tuberculosis to the province is not only sub-ordinate to the health of our province but largely dependent upon it.

The work which was formerly left to philanthropy is coming to be accepted as an integral part of social politics. The state no longer leaves philanthropy to feed and care for the prisoners, nor to care for the indigent. It does wear itself and the day is rapidly approaching when the care of the sick will be neither an ill-regulated whim nor a private rage that exhausts itself in a ball. Philanthropy cannot retain a private concern. None of the ills of the individual are entirely individual. The social instincts are tightly woven for that. Of course, it does not follow that the province must discharge all the work of philanthropy. It may exhaust itself in the work or any part of it to persons or corporations, but the province should be responsible for its being done, and that it is done in the right way.

Besides, the aim of benevolence has become wider and shows a strong tendency to confine itself to the prevention of suffering and to the enhancing of the value of life rather than to the alleviation of it. In substantiation of this, we would point out that less than a century ago hospitals were entirely private in character because, in the absence of statistical knowledge, the extent of social distress was unknown and that its income is a permanent grasp the possibility of a thorough remedy.

At the beginning of the 19th century all the hospitals were private; at the close of it two-thirds of them were already maintained and provided by the public authorities and out of the public funds. This change has resulted from a higher conception of duty, or shall we say self-preservation, on the part of the nation.

So late as 1842, the British nation refused to help a fever hospital. Now the nation is responsible, as we are in Canada, for all notified infectious diseases and for the great bulk of our non-infectious diseases.

Philanthropy is no true function of a healthy society. It has in the past played a prominent role because, as we said before, politicians did not understand their craft nor citizens discharge their duties. The provincial or municipal hospital has the superlative advantage, too, over the philanthropic hospital in that its income is a permanent instrument of finance and is not dependent on whims or chances such as the social standing, popularity, or attractive influence of its leaders. Besides, a hospital supported by voluntary contributions always practices by one of the least worthy methods. That is to say, the nurses are overworked to a shameful degree and the patients insufficiently warmed and fed.

In the final analysis the money for hospital maintenance comes from the pockets of the citizens, but it is our contention that the present cost of providing for the sick is excessive as well as inadequate and that the simplest and most satisfactory method is through direct taxation. Besides, a man or woman who goes to a provincial or municipal hospital, no longer comes under the stigma of pauperism for the conception of public health and the value of life from the economic standpoint have come to the front as the main factors.

In times past it was the habit of the world to lament that people were bound by the chain of their infirmities. Nowadays, we are being tied and bound together to get improved health. Ours is the better way. Besides, this is the highest form of patriotism. To be worthy of Canada is to be efficient, and to be efficient is to be healthy. Patriotism is a cabinet minister or in a similar sweep consists largely in being healthy and in using vote and influence in helping others to the same blessed and much to be desired condition.

Concrete Fence Posts Last Forever

THEY never rot away in the ground. They stand the hardest knocks and never have to be replaced, for they are practically everlasting. They are easily and cheaply made and are the most satisfactory of all fence posts.

Concrete Drain Tile Cannot Decay

Concrete drains do not decay and are cheaper, because they do not crumble and stop up drains, hence they need no digging up or relaying.

Let us send you this free book, "What the Farmer can do with Concrete." It shows you how to make concrete fence posts and will save you many dollars when doing other building 'round the farm.

School Cadets Attend Camp

The Red Deer Public School Cadets returned Tuesday night from a six days camp at Edmonton after having had a splendid time. The only regret of the boys being that their stay was not long enough. Secret. Harvey, the instructor who had charge of the boys, and the lad themselves are very proud because of carrying off the silver medal given by the Daughters of the Empire for the best and cleanest lines in camp. Col. Cruikshank also warmly congratulated them on their training and Major Outhit said that they had the best discipline of any corps in camp.

The journeys up and down were all right, and their camping place was in one of the city parks. The first night, however, owing to their having the worst position, they were washed out by the rain, and wet blankets got the boys at 3 o'clock. They got up at six o'clock and, after breakfast, had drill in the morning, parades and races in the afternoon, and indoor baseball at night. The food was first class, the cooking being done by about twenty ladies. Each boy had three blankets and a waterproof sheet.

Ed. Welch won first prize in the standing jump, G. Springear first in the running jump, and Willie Wilson was first in shooting. C. Herrington second, and Capt. Rutherford third. They beat the Allan Grey school, Edmonton, by 7 to 9 in ball.

The Red Deer party consisted of: Staff Secret. Major Harvey, instructor: Capt. Rutherford, Lieut. Evan Galbraith, Drummer Sam Wilson No. 2, Signaller C. Hadley, Cooks, C. Herrington, F. Young, W. Wilson, R. Pidgeon, M. Hoskin, G. Nurcombe, G. Springear, A. Hadley, A. Dele, E. Welch, F. Hill, A. Cave, Sam Wilson, No. 1.

All cadets parade next Friday at 6 p.m. to the Armories.

SCHOOL BOARD

Chairman W. E. Payne, Secretary M. A. Munro and Mr. R. L. Giesse spent Monday evening in determining the Public School Board estimates for the year. They decided that the needs of the Board for 1914 would be $33,180, an increase of $1,000 over last year, but as the Government grants to Schools in cities as towns were materially cut by the 1913 legislation, the Board are only counting on a Government grant for 1914 of $17,500 as compared with $27,000 last year. This will ask the city to raise $1,000 by taxation, which will increase the school rate by 1 to 4 mill.

The Board's scale of salaries for teachers, adopted in 1912, provides for increases each year of service ranging from $5 to $10 per month. These increases take effect on Sept. 1. Miss Summerby joins the High School staff on Sept. 1, and provision is made for an extra teacher if needed in the fall. The estimates, in round figures, are as follows:—

Teachers Salaries—
Mr. McKenzie $2040, Mr. Gibson $1840, Miss Goudie $1140, Miss Summerby $400, Principal Central School $320, Miss Tyner $820, Miss Widen $820, Miss Hartrey and Miss Pearce $780, Miss Elbert $775, Miss Cole $730, Miss Freeman and Miss Hill $700, Miss Paterson and Miss Davidson $720, Miss Stewart $700, Miss Myers and Miss Pearce $700, Miss Welton $720, Miss Lund $730, Miss Smith $710, Extra teachers $500, Mrs. Quicke $400 ... $16,262

Officers—
Secretary-Treasurer 400, Trustant Officer $150 ... 550
Janitors—
Two Central schools $1500, South Red Deer $251, North Red Deer $220 ... 1970
Fuel ... 1975
Light and water ... 175
Supplies—
Furniture, maps, copy books, books, paper ... 1800
Library and reference books 200
Grounds and buildings—
Fixing up old school, North Red Deer school fence, work on grounds, general repairs ... 1500
Insurance ... 20
Taxes ... 450
Debentures ... 5713
Interest ... 1150
Rent Parish Hall ... 400
Separate School Board ... 375
Other Expenses ... 700

Less Government grants ... $331,430
Total ... $331,430

As compared with 1913, the estimates of 1914 show the following increases and decreases:

	Dec. 1913	Inc. 1914
Teachers salaries	70	2,122
Trustant Officer	10	10
Janitors	175	175

beloved, yet it joys in its own existence nevertheless. Of course its greatest satisfaction is in the return, but there is a sweetness even in the despair of the truly loving.

Erld Matland, however, did not have to endure indifference, or fight against a passion which met with no response, for this man loved her with a love that was greater even than her own. The moon, in the trite aphorism, looms on mountains, peaks, and seas no moon but the one above him in the heavens. In one sense his merit in winning her affection for himself was that he had loved her as he knew, was the greater; in many years he had only seen this one woman. Naturally she should be everything to him. She represented to him not only the woman but womankind. He had been a boy practically when he had buried himself in those mountains, and in all this time he had seen no body like Erld Matland. Every argument which had been exploited to show why she should love him could be turned about to account for his passion for her. They are not necessary, they are all supererogatory, idle words. To him also love had been born in an hour. It had flashed into existence as if from the flat of the Divine.

Oh, he had fought against it. Like the cronies of old, he had been scourged into the desert by remorse and another passion, but time had done its work. The woman he first loved had ministered to his spiritual side of the man, or if she had so ministered in any degree it was because he had looked at her with a glamour of inexperience and youth. During those five years of solitude, of study and of reflection, the truth had gradually unrolled itself before him. Conclusions reached by variance with what he had ever believed possible as to the woman upon whom he had first bestowed his heart, had got into his being and were in solution there; this present woman was the precipitant which brought them to life. He knew now what the old appeal of his wife had been. He knew now what the new appeal of this woman was.

In humanity two things in life are inextricably intermingled, body and soul. Where the function of one begins and the function of the other ends no one is able to say. In all human passions are admixtures of the earth earthy. We are born the sons of old Adam as we are reborn the sons of the New. Passions are complex. As in harvest wheat and grass grow together until the end, so in love earth and heaven mingle ever. He remembered a clause from an ancient marriage service he had read— "With every fibre of his physical being, he loved this woman."

It would be idle to deny that, impossible to disguise the facts, but in the melting pot of passion the ponderant ingredient was mental and spiritual; and just because higher and nobler things predominated, he had in his heart a sacred thing. Love is like a rose: the material part is the beautiful blossom; the spiritual factor is the fragrance which alone makes a rose far even after every leaf has faded away, or which may be expressed from the soft petals by the hard circumstances of pain and sorrow, and there is left nothing but the lingering perfume of the flower.

His body trembled if she laid a hand upon him, his soul thirsted for her; present or absent he conjured her; his tortured brain the sweetness that inhabited her breast. He had no fear, he was neither analyzing the past, he was neither elated nor coherent in thinking of the present. He worshipped her, he could have knelt upon his knees to her; if it would have added to her happiness, she could have killed him, smiling at her. Rodo is in the judgment of the ancients an idol, with his body, would he have unhesitatingly paved the way and have been glad of the privilege. He longed to companion her with sweet observations. The world revenged itself upon him for his long neglect, it had summed up in this one woman all its charm, its beauty, its romance, and had thrust her into his very arms. His was one of those great passions which illuminate the records of the past. Erld had not loved Francesca more.

Oh, yes, the woman knew he loved her. It was not in the power of mortal man to matter how from his restraint, how absolute the impulsion of his will, to keep his heart hidden, his passion undisclosed. No one could keep such things secret, his love he cried aloud in a thousand ways, even his look when he dared to turn his eyes upon her was eloquent of his feeling. He never said a word, however, he held his lips at least fettered and bound for he believed that honor and its obligations weighed down the balance upon the contrary side to which his inclinations lay.

He was not worthy of this woman. In the first place all he had to offer her was a blood stained hand. That might have been overcome in his mind; but pride in his self punishment, his resolution to withdraw himself, his resolution to withdraw such time as God compelled him as a penance and signified his acceptance of the penitent by taking away his life, held him inexorably.

The dark face of his wife rose before him. He forced himself to think upon her, she had loved him, she had given him all that she could. He remembered how she had pleaded with him that he take her to the most dangerous of journeys, her devotion to him had been so great she could not let him go out of her sight a moment, he thought fatuously and he killed her. In the queer turmoil of his brain he blessed himself for everything. He could not be false to his purpose, false to her memory, unworthy of the passion in which he believed she had held him and which he believed he had inspired.

If he had gone out in the world, after her death he might have forgotten most of these things, he might have lived them down. Sinner clear views would have come to him. His morbid self reproach and self consciousness would have been changed.

But he had lived with them alone for five years and now there was no putting them aside. Honor and pride, the only things that may successfully fight against love, overcome him. He could not give way. He wanted to, every time he was in her presence he longed to sweep her to his heart and crush her in his arms and bend her head back and press lips of fire on her lips.

But honor and pride, held him back. How long would they continue to exercise dominion over him? Would the time come when his passion, rising like a sea would thunder upon these artificial embankments of his soul, bent them down and sweep them away?

At first the disparity between their situations, not so much upon account of family or of property—the treasures of the mountains, hidden since creation he had discovered and let loose—but because of the youth and position of the woman compared to his own mature years, his desperate experience, and his social withdrawal had reinforced his determination to live and love without a sign. But he had long since got beyond this. Had he been free he would have taken her like a Viking of old, if he had to pluck her from under the thousand swords and carry her to a haggard's hut which love would have turned to a palace. And she would have come with him on the same conditions.

He did not know that. Women have learned through centuries of weakness that fine art of concealment which man has never mastered. She never let him see what she thought of him. Yet he was not without suspicion; if that suspicion grew to certainty, would he control himself then? At first he had sought to keep out of her way, but she had compelled him to come in. The room that was kitchen and bed room and store room for him was cheerless and somewhat cold. Save at night or when he was busy with other tasks outside he lived together in a great room. It was always warm, it was always bright, it was always cheerful, there.

The little piles of manuscript she had not read books that he had written. He made no effort to conceal such things from her. He talked frankly enough about his life in the past. He talked of the difficulties of avoiding the discussion of such topics. On but two subjects was he inexorably silent. One was the present state of his affections and the other was the why and wherefore of his lonely life. She knew beyond peradventure that he loved her, but she lived in a state of suspense even as to the reason why he had become a recluse. He had never given her the slightest clue to his past save that admission that he had known Kirkby which was in itself nothing definitive, and she also never connected with that package of letters which she still kept with her.

The man's mind was too active and fertile to be satisfied with manual labor alone, the books that he had written were scientific treatises in the main. One was a learned discussion of the fauna and flora of the mountains. Another was an exhaustive account of the mineral resources and geological formations of the region. He had only to allow a whisper, a suspicion of his discovery of gold and silver in the mountains to escape him, and the canons and crests which were filled with eager prospectors. Still a third work was a scientific analysis of the power powers in the canons.

He had willingly allowed her to read them all. Much of them she found technical and aside from the fact that he had written them, uninteresting. But there was one book remaining in which he simply discussed the mountains in the various seasons of the year; when the snows covered them, when the grass and the moss came again, when the flowers bloomed, when autumn touched the trees. There was the soul of the man, poetry expressed in prose, man like but none the less poetic.

This book pored over, she questioned him about it; they discussed it as they discussed Keats and the other poets. These were happy evenings. She sat on one side of the fire, he sat on the other, and he would hold his finger wound with cloth to hold his giant tumbler, fashioning for herself some winter garments out of a gay colored, red, white and black and exquisitely woven Navajo blanket, soft and pliable almost as an old-fashioned piece of native-printing as he had but known it—which he had at her disposal. While on the other side of the same homely blaze he would for out of the skins of some of the animals that he had killed, a shapely foot covering, half moccasins and wholly legging, which could wear over her boots and short excursions around the plateau and which would keep her feet warm and comfortable.

By her permission he smoked as he worked, enjoying the hour, putting aside the past and the future and for a few moments blissfully content. Sometimes he laid aside his work and whatever work he was engaged upon and read to her from some immortal noble number. Sometimes the entertainment fell to her and she sang to him in her glorious contralto voice.

WONDERFUL RECORD OF A WONDERFUL CURE

Only Remedy That Acts On All Three Of The Organs Responsible For The Formation Of Uric Acid In The Blood.

Many people do not realize that the Skin is one of the three great eliminators of waste matter from the body. As a matter of fact, the Skin rids the system of more Urea (or waste matter) than the Kidney. When there is Kidney Trouble, Pain In The Back and Acid Urine, it may not be the fault of the Kidneys at all, but be due to faulty Skin Action, or Constipation of the bowels.

"Fruit-a-lives" cures weak, sore, aching Kidneys, not only because it strengthens these organs but also because it acts on the other two organs, sweetens the stomach and stimulates the action of the skin.

music that made him sad. Once he could stand it no longer. At the end of a burst of song which filled the little room—he had risen to his feet while she sang, compelled to the erect position by the magnificent melody—as the last notes died away she smiled at him triumphant and expectant of his praise and his approval, he buried himself out of the room and into the night, wrestling for hours with the storm which after all was but a trifle to that which raged in his bosom. While she, left alone and deserted, quailed within the silent room till she heard him come back.

Often and often when she slept quietly on one side the thin partition, she lay awake on the other, and sometimes his passion drove him forth to cool the fever, the fire in his soul in the icy, wintry air. The struggle within him grew more and more desperate, the loving eye of the woman searched his face, scrutinized him, looked into his heart, saw what was there. He determined to do it, deciding that he must confess his affections. She had no premonition of the truth and no consideration of any evil consequences he had in mind, she could give free range to her love and her devotion. She had the ordering of their lives and she had the power to alter the situation for the better and more impossible. She fancied the matter easily terminable. She thought she had only to let him see her heart in such way as a man may, to bring joy to his own to make him speak. She did not dream of the reality.

One night, therefore, a month or more after she had come, she resolved to end the uncertainty. She believed the easiest and the quickest way would be to go and tell him why he was there. She naturally surmised that the woman of the picture, which she had never seen since the first day of her arrival, was some measure the cause of it and the only pain she had in the situation was the keen jealousy that would obscure itself at the thought of her coming. She remembered everything that he had said to her, and she recalled that he had once made the remark that he would trust her as he would his own life. She might have been some one he had loved, but who had not loved him. She might have died. She was jealous of her, but she did not fear her.

After a long and painful effort the woman had completed the winter suit she had made for herself. He had advised her to wear a blue dress, a belted tunic that fell to her knees; the red and black stripes ran around it, edged the broad collar, cuffed the warm sleeves and marked the graceful line of her skirt. It was excessively becoming to her. He had been down into the valley, or the pocket, for a final inspection of the burles before he left, and she had taken advantage of the opportunity to put it on. She knew that she was beautiful; her determination to make this evening count had brought an unusual count to her cheeks, an unwanted sparkle to her eyes. She stood up and she heard him enter the other room; she was standing erect as he came through the door and faced her. He had only seen her in the now somewhat shabby blue of her ordinary camp dress before, and her beauty fairly smote him in his face. He stood before her in a new awe, a great coat, snow and ice clinging to it, entranced. The woman smiled at the effect she produced.

"Take of your coat," she said gently, approaching him. "Here, let me help you. Do you realize that I have been here over a month now? I want to have a little with you, I want you to tell me something."

CHAPTER XVI.

The Kiss on the Hand.

"Did it ever occur to you," began Erld Matland gravely enough, for she quite realized the serious nature of the impending conversation, "did it

RED DEER FAIR

The officers and directors of the Red Deer Agricultural Society have everything almost in readiness for the big exhibition on August 18th, 19th, 20th and 21st, and there remains only the assurance of good weather to ensure the greatest and best fair of Central Alberta.

GROUND.

Owing to lack of buildings to accommodate the stock, the Society have secured the use of several large tents which, together with some other temporary housing on the grounds, will help to take care of the entries. Several of the biggest exhibitors taking in the larger shows of Western Canada will be on hand with their stock. In the Holstein class alone 150 entries are expected. The city is draining the tract and making some other improvements to the grounds, which will improve conditions greatly.

ATTRACTIONS.

The directors are closing with some first class free attractions for the front of which will be announced later. The annual provincial sports of the Alberta Farmers' Association will be held on Wednesday afternoon, August 19th. On Thursday night there will be a grand display of fireworks and illuminated fire run by the Red Deer Fire Brigade in addition to the platform attractions. The big baby contest takes place on Thursday afternoon, and Mr. A. H. Melnick, of Calgary, the donor of the prize, will be on the judging stand.

RACES.

Prospects are exceedingly bright for the biggest race meet in Red Deer's history, as is evidenced by the number of horses already entered. The two $1,000 stake races. The operation of the Part-Mutuel betting machines will do away with the bookmakers and make the races in the square. The following list of the horses entered for the two big races:

NOTES.

Reduced rates have been secured for the Fair from the railway companies.

A special train will be run from the Rocky Mountain House over the A.C.R. on Thursday, August 20th. Special rates and time table announced later.

Get a prize list and make your entries now, thus securing good space for your exhibits, and assist the staff when the rush of entries comes.

Farmers who are interested in the Farm Home Competition should register their entries in this class close on August 8th. What do you think of the beautiful hanger got out by advertising man P. Turnbull? Nothing better put out by any exhibition in the west.

COURT CONSIDERS IT NECESSARY TO HEAR RESPONDENT.

London, July 16.—The privy council today, after hearing the appellant's counsel in the Alberta attorney general versus the Dominion attorney general, said they would consider whether it was necessary for them to hear from the respondent's counsel. The appeal arises over reference to the supreme court by the governor general concerning the validity of a certain section of the Alberta railway act.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Attend the Fair every day.

Charles Wells, of Pitcoy, was a visitor in town Monday.

Provincial league match tonight. Dairy vs. Red Deer; on school grounds.

Be sure and read the advertisements of the big sale at Ross's Checkboard Store.

Mrs. Sargent left for New York yesterday for a holiday with friends and relatives.

Mrs. R. J. Welton and children, of Medicine Hat, are visiting Mrs. F. H. Tallman.

H. C. Donlevy, C.P.R. agent, was in Calgary on business from Saturday until Tuesday.

Miss Ault left on Monday to spend the summer holidays in Montreal.

The real estate brokers and oil operators close their offices at one p.m. on Saturdays during July and August.

The greatest sale of the season in men's clothing, etc., starts Saturday, July 25th, at the Checkboard Store.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Carswell and Miss Katie were among the visitors at Sylvan Lake this week, occupying Mr. Hadley's cottage, "Sunnyside."

Drs. Plaxton and Sanders wish to announce that their businesses will close at twelve o'clock on Saturdays for the balance of the year.

Many things are essential to a successful Fair—exhibits, amusements, attendance and good weather. We expect to have them all at Red Deer Fair.

The subject of the sermon in the Methodist Church, next Sunday evening, July 26th, will be: Does the New Testament give us a true picture of the real Jesus of Nazareth?

J. E. Cunningham and wife and Mrs. M. A. Munro motored to Calgary yesterday. Mrs. Munro will spend a week with Mrs. Helliwell while in Calgary.

The Dominion Department of Agriculture will have a big exhibit from the Lacombe and Lethbridge Experimental Farms at Red Deer Fair, August 19-21.

Des. George is mentioned in the Bulletin as one of the successful students in the recent law examinations held by the Law Society of Alberta. Des. passed the first preliminary.

J. Grant MacGregor has been reading about some of the new potatoes grown and shown with pride by some of our citizens, and to show that he is no way behind the times he has some samples of his own produce, including new potatoes, carrots, and onions, also sweet peas and mignonette, which are a very fine lot.

J. J. Richards, of Red Deer, was a heavy prize winner in the dairy competition at the Calgary Fair, taking first prize with Lady Moir, who had a lead of eight points over any other competitor in the class for best dairy cow of any breed. He also took 3rd, 4th and 6th in the same class. He also took many prizes as his Yorkshire at Lethbridge Fair.

One of the biggest and best showings of live stock ever seen in the West will be at the Red Deer Fair, August 18, 19, 20, 21. The directors have arranged for temporary accommodation to take care of big entry list in this department. Practically all the big dairy breeders of the province have signified their intention to be at Red Deer for the Fair, and with the local dairy breeders the display of dairy stock will be exceptionally fine. There will also be a splendid showing of Clyde and Percheron horses.

Pine Lake Football Club were visitors in Red Deer on Saturday last, and played the local boys on the school grounds in the evening. Red Deer did not have out their strongest team, as some misunderstanding and action about the game, but they won a good game by the score of 3 to 0. Pine Lake used to play some cracking good games of football and were always welcome visitors here. The team on Saturday showed good individual play, but combination was missing and not to be expected, as the boys get little chance of playing together.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Stone left on the Monday noon train for Calgary to attend the Funeral Directors' and Embalmers' Convention, being held at the Calgary Hotel, on 22nd and 23rd, Mr. Stone being the provincial Secretary of the Alberta Association.

Before returning home they may go on to Regina to be present at the opening of the Saskatchewan Funeral Directors and Embalmers Association's first convention. While there they will be the guests of W. J. Bowker, President of the Association. Saskatchewan has the honor of being the only province in the Dominion which has taken it upon itself to open the profession of embalming. The Alberta Government have had this Act passed before them five times but have not passed it, and all they have done was to make promises which they forgot as soon found at the Red Deer Fair. Whatever you do, don't miss the Red Deer Fair.

Don't forget tomorrow is market day.

Don't miss a single day of the Red Deer Fair this year.

Joek Oliver, who recently underwent an operation, is improving very nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. F. Root, of Erin, are looking up old friends in the city for a couple of days.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fowler returned from holidaying at the Lake on Monday last.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Pickering, of Sylvan Lake district, were in the city yesterday visiting.

Mrs. A. E. Chisholm, of Montreal, is spending a couple of months with her sister, Mrs. L. J. Porter, of Parkville.

Miss Kennedy, milliner, left on Monday for Ontario and U.S.A. fashion centres. She will be away about six weeks.

H. B. George has resigned his position with the Bank of Montreal, and is now local agent for the Canada Life Assurance Company.

Mayor Carstairs has been in company with Health Inspector Anquetil as to who has the best potatoes. The race was a close one, and was won by the Mayor.

Mrs. Geo. W. Greene and family, accompanied by the Misses Brunk, of Victoria, have taken up summer residence at Sylvan Lake until September.

Mr. Jacobs, editor of the Farm and Ranch Review, Calgary, and his wife, who is President of the Women's Press Club, of Calgary, are spending a month's holiday at Sylvan Lake.

A bunch of Red Deer sports residing at Sylvan Lake for the present played that burg a game of baseball last week, and after an exciting day, defeated them by 7-5. We understand they play again tonight.

The citizens of Penhold had a very good day for their annual sports on Friday last, and everything went off well. The races and other events for the children and grown-ups, and a couple of exciting baseball matches, in addition to a fine supper, made the day pass very pleasantly.

"Minstrel Maids"
Different Girl Show

Next Monday evening, July 27th, at the Lyric Theatre, the attraction will be Grace M. Russell's "Merry Minstrel Maids," the cleverest girl organization ever sent on tour. The company is a large one, each an artist.

The novel first part has been commented upon most favorably in almost every city east of the Mississippi river. This company is now making its first western tour and is expected to be a triumph.

Of the largest cities in the east and south. Records are being smashed everywhere, and managers are calling on the return of the company to hold the unique position of being the only highly successful woman to stage and handle an attraction of this kind.

There are twenty-four musical numbers interspersed throughout the two hours of music, mirth and melody. Watch for the novel street parade. Popular prices will prevail, and seats are on sale at Gaetz & Cornett's Drug Store.

Eckville

The Co-operative Store has filled a long felt want by installing a weigh scales with a capacity of 10,000 pounds. The need for a scale of this class was great, more especially as Eckville is becoming quite a shipping point.

The Salvation Army held a meeting in town this week.

Mr. Harry Woode, of Kusama, was a visitor last week. Mr. Woods is operating the cheese factory at Kusama, and may install a creamery or ship cream or milk from Eckville.

A. Eckford is showing a fine sample of alfalfa, grown on his farm just north of town.

R. O. Wright, of Leslieville, was a visitor last week, also Mr. Wilton, of Red Deer.

Prospects are good for an early and heavy harvest.

The bi-monthly meeting of the Eckville Camp, Modern Women of America, has been changed from the second and fourth Thursday to the second and fourth Tuesday in every month at 8 o'clock. New members always welcome.

Praises the Market

W. T. Atlee, of New Westminster, B.C., in writing The News and renewing his subscription, says:

"I am glad to see that you have a weekly market started there, and hope that the people will be enthusiastic enough to make it a lasting thing, for they have one here, and it certainly is a good thing for the producers to get full value for their produce."

There is a thing they have here. That is an auction mart in the market square. They have two auctioneers and they are sometimes four hours disposing of all kinds of stock, implements, etc., which helps to swell the market fees and also enables people to dispose of articles they do not need and for others to get what they require.

Correspondence

Editor of News.—

Dear Sir,—Being a comparative stranger in this city, I thought I would try and learn through the columns of your valuable paper where I belonged. Now, although I have been here about one year and have an office in the city, I hardly know where I belong. If I start from the centre of the city, I notice by the current talk that I am on the corner of Gaetz and Ross.

I go southward, I come to 1st St. S. I go a little farther, I find myself on 2nd St. S. Then if I turn and go east I soon come to what the common walk, if there was one there, would say 1st Ave. East and so on.

When I first came here I was told that all streets running north and south were called avenues, and all streets running east and west were called streets. Now I have supposed that my office was on Ross St. The map tells me it is on Ross Ave.

Then if I am talking with any of the city fathers they will go on telling about Mann St., or Baker or Chicago, Ill. Mr. Anderson is a well known preacher of the Nazarene church, and his wife previous to her marriage was leader of the ladies' quartette of this church's university at Oliver, Ills.

First service Sunday morning at 11, afternoon at 3, and 7.30 in the evening. Week day services every night at 8, preceded by a short song service. Song books "Best of All, Complete" will be used. Don't forget the location at Methodist Church, 1st St. North, close to Gaetz Ave.

Now if all streets running east and west are to be called streets, as the newspapers and city fathers call them by their right names, so that a dunce like myself would know where he was at.

Who one is very much interested.

J. M. MEYERS.

Killed on A.C.R.

An unfortunate and peculiar accident, resulting in death, occurred on the A.C.R. near Eckville on Saturday last. The accident happened about 8.30 a.m. under the following circumstances: O. E. Secord, foreman of the Ideal Fence Co., was travelling towards Sylvan Lake on the gasoline motor, and had come to a stop to take a load of lumber to the place where the deceased, Edward James Gilday, truckkeeper on McLean's trail, jumped on the motor, and proceeded towards the extra gang, travelling about seventeen miles an hour. When near the construction camp belonging to the cars, and without the slightest warning, a barrier belonging to the deceased jumped out of the bush on to the track in front of the motor, which ran over him and then left the rails, pitching Gilday forward about fourteen feet, he appearing to turn a somersault in the air and fall with a crash on his head.

The driver of the car, Secord, clung to his place, and when the car came to a stand still in the ditch, he was found about thirty feet, but escaped injury altogether.

The deceased, who was conscious for a time, was removed to the hospital at Red Deer, but died on Saturday night at 10.15 p.m.

Dr. Allan, of Red Deer, acting coroner, held an inquest on the body Monday and Tuesday, when the jury brought in a verdict of accidental death, exonerating the driver of the car from blame.

The body of the deceased was sent to Winnipeg for burial on Monday.

BASEBALL.

Lacombe's championship aspirations received a knockout blow at Olds last week when they were defeated 13-12. The game was nearly a free fight before it finished. There has been a lot of cheering along the line this year, and nothing will kill the game so quick as scarping and poor umpiring.

Revival Meetings in Old Methodist Church

Beginning next Sunday, July 26th, Rev. L. Milton Williams, of Oskaloosa, Iowa, will conduct a two weeks' revival campaign in the old Methodist church under the auspices of the Nazarene Church of Red Deer.

He will be accompanied by his wife, who is a musician, and they will have associated with them in the work Rev. E. G. Anderson and wife of Chicago, Ills. Mr. Anderson is a well known preacher of the Nazarene church, and his wife previous to her marriage was leader of the ladies' quartette of this church's university at Oliver, Ills.

First service Sunday morning at 11, afternoon at 3, and 7.30 in the evening. Week day services every night at 8, preceded by a short song service. Song books "Best of All, Complete" will be used. Don't forget the location at Methodist Church, 1st St. North, close to Gaetz Ave.

SEWING OR WASHING. I am prepared to go out sewing or washing by the day—MRS. E. CHEIROUT, North Red Deer. Enquire at News Office. July 22, 21st.

TENDERS WANTED.

Tenders for a porch on the school house of Shady Nook School District, No. 1061-16 will be received by the undersigned up to Thursday noon, 30th day of July. For particulars apply to WILLIAM STEWART, Secretary-Treasurer, Red Deer, July 22, 21st.

CORRECTION.

It was advertised in a Red Deer paper that Margais what was the earliest wheat known. This was not altogether correct. It was signed by W. E. Corum, but A. E. Corum put it in paper. I ask the general public to forgive me for this statement, as it appears that it was not absolutely true.—A. E. CORUM.
